Caregiver Resource Directory

January 2016

While it is impossible to capture a complete list of resources, this directory includes the most commonly referenced resources for caregivers of recovering Service members, most of them at the national level. The National Resource Directory has vetted them; though it makes no recommendations or endorsements about the quality of services offered. All the resources and links included here were accurate and up-to-date at press time; however, it is unavoidable that some will become outdated over time. We recommend you always seek updated information using your preferred search engine.

This directory is a dynamic document that will be uploaded and refined on a regular basis. We encourage you to access the electronic version of the Caregiver Resource Directory through the Warrior Care Blog (warriorcare.dodlive.mil/wounded-warrior-resources/caregiver-resources/).

For more comprehensive listings of state and local resources, please visit the National Resource Directory at www.nrd.gov.

If you have questions or feedback regarding the directory, please send an email to InfoNRD.osd@mail.mil.

To the caregivers of recovering Service members...

A serious wound, illness, or injury doesn't just significantly change a Service member's life. As the caregiver of a recovering Service member, your life has changed significantly as well and you are now facing new and demanding challenges. With many organizations offering different types of help and services, it can be difficult to sort out the specific type of help or services best suited for your needs. Therefore, this directory was formulated with you—the caregiver—as its primary focus. It was designed to provide information in a manner that enables you to quickly identify many of the available resources that address your particular needs and requirements. In addition, this directory serves as another tangible demonstration from a grateful nation that you are not in this alone!

Whatever particular challenges you are facing, or whatever specific help you need, we hope this directory can assist in the following ways:

- Help you get the type of assistance you need. This directory lists many government and nonprofit resources, which you can access both in-person and online, intended to address just about every conceivable need you may have. Most are free to you.
- Help you get educated about your recovering Service member's medical condition. Knowledge is power, and no one will advocate for your Service member the way you will. Plus, the more you learn about your loved one's condition, the more comfortable, prepared, and capable you'll become to handle any unexpected circumstances you may encounter.
- Help you connect with others. You'll discover, if you haven't already, that you're part of a larger community of caregivers and caregiver supporters who have made themselves available for contact, interaction, and networking. You are truly not alone.
- Help you take care of yourself. This is a subject often overlooked but vitally important. Unquestionably, the act of caregiving exacts a tremendous physical and mental toll on the caregiver. So, it's important that you make self care a top priority. With that in mind, look for the heart icon (), which designates resources specifically designed to help you do so.

Just remember, taking care of you is never a selfish act—
it's an act that helps you take care of your hero better now and in the future!

"Military caregivers play a fundamental role in the lives of their wounded, ill, and injured Service members as they transition back to military or civilian life. Treating our Service members and their families as a whole recognizes that once a Service member becomes ill or injured, the family becomes ill or injured as well. As a member of this new recovery team, military caregivers often times sacrifice their careers, hobbies, and interests to support their Service members. It is imperative that we support our military caregivers, bolster their strength, give them opportunities to connect with their peers, and encourage their abilities to care for themselves and their families. The Caregiver Resource Directory, in conjunction with Military Caregiver PEER Forums, serves as an invaluable tool that aids military caregivers in resolving the myriad of issues they face on a daily basis."

Respite Care for Caregivers

TRICARE'S respite care benefit offers short term care to seriously ill or injured active duty Service members to give their caregiver some rest and a change from assisting them with activities of daily living (e.g., dressing, feeding, hygiene). The case manager or another approving authority may approve respite care if the Service member's care includes more than two "interventions during the eight-hour period per day that the primary caregiver would normally be sleeping." Respite care is limited to eight hours per day, five days per week, and must be provided by a TRICARE-authorized home health agency. Federal law authorizing respite for TRICARE ECHO participants—family members of Service members—was amended to allow this benefit for Service members.

Special Compensation for Assistance with Activities of Daily Living (SCAADL)

Special Compensation for Assistance with Activities of Daily Living (SCAADL) was authorized by the Fiscal Year 2010 National Defense Authorization Act. This special monthly compensation is for Service members who incur a permanent catastrophic injury or illness and require assistance with activities of daily living or who require constant supervision. SCAADL helps offset the loss of income by a primary caregiver who provides non-medical care, support, and assistance for the Service member.

Contact a member of your recovery team (to include the Primary Care Manager, Nurse Case Manager, Recovery Care Coordinator, Non-Medical Care Manager, or unit leadership) for the SCAADL application and guidance.

Physical Evaluation Board (PEB) Disposition Findings

When the PEB makes its decision on medical fitness for duty, there are five possible outcomes.

- Return to Duty: If the conditions are not considered severe enough to make the Service member unfit for duty, the Service member will be returned to his/her job and Service. No disability benefits would be paid while continuing to serve, but the Service member may be eligible for VA benefits after leaving the military.
- 2 Separate without Benefits: Some injuries are determined to be "not in the line of duty" if they are a result of intentional misconduct or willful negligence or took place when not on orders if a member of the National Guard or Reserve. If the injury is found "not in the line of duty," but is "unfitting," the member could be separated without benefits for those injuries. If the injury or illness resulted from a medical problem before entering the service, and the injury or illness was not permanently aggravated by service, the member may be separated without benefits.
- 3 Separate with Severance Pay: If one or more of the member's conditions are considered "unfitting" for continued service, but the combined disability rating for all the unfitting conditions is less than 30 percent, the member may be separated from Active Duty and be awarded severance pay based on their time in service and current pay grade.
- Transfer to the Temporary Disability Retirement List (TDRL): The TDRL allows the Service to ensure a medical condition stabilizes before making a final disability determination. If the Service member is eligible for permanent disability retirement, but the condition is not considered stable, the member will be temporarily retired and placed on the TDRL for a maximum of five years. Every 12–18 months the Service member will be medically reevaluated to determine if the condition remains unstable, or has either changed (improved or worsened) or has stabilized. Benefits while on the TDRL are the same as those for the Permanent Disability Retirement List (PDRL). While on the TDRL, disability retirement compensation will be at least 50% of retired base pay. If during those five years, the Service determines the condition is stable and the member is fit for duty, the Service will offer the member the chance to return to duty. If the condition stabilizes, but the member is not able to return to duty, the member will be either separated with severance pay or transferred to the PDRL, depending on the final disability determination.
- Transfer to the Permanent Disability Retirement List (PDRL): If all the unfitting conditions resulted in a combined disability rating of 30 percent or higher, and the condition is considered stable (meaning the disability rating is unlikely to change within five years), the member will be permanently retired for disability and placed on the PDRL. This provides the member with disability retirement pay, access to TRICARE for the member and dependents, commissary and exchange privileges, and all other benefits or regular military retirement. If the Service member has more than 20 years of service and the combined disability rating is less than 30 percent, the member will be allowed to retire with all the regular military retirement benefits.
